Dear families,

Welcome back to school!! My name is Jason Swenson and it is a pleasure to be your new principal in Lynd. I am thrilled to be a part of the Lynd school system and looking forward to meeting and working with everyone in the district.

I hope that your time away has been relaxing and rewarding, recharging you for another great school year. As the year unfolds, please don't hesitate to call if you have a question of your child's teacher, principal, or school district. We will do our best to answer them.

As we begin this school year, I would like to set a tone or a theme for this year, which would be one of growth. As parents, you would like to see your child grow physically, mentally, and spiritually. As a school, we would like to see this also. How this works differs from your point of view.

As you look at your child, you see a boy or girl growing up. This child seeks to learn who they are within your home, and who they are as your child. You want them to go to school and "Do their best", "Mind their manners", and "Do unto others as they would do unto you." You are raising your child, the most challenging and rewarding task you can ever undertake.

As we look at your child, we see a boy or girl with varying abilities, skills, attributes, and talents that lend themselves to that age old idea of learning. We see them come to school and read, write, problem solve, share, demonstrate, and express themselves; all in the pursuit of a greater understanding of who we are as a country. We are teaching your child, the most challenging and rewarding task we can ever undertake.

We, as parents and school, need to come together and lend our strengths and insights for the singular purpose of giving our children an education they can go into the world with and thrive!!

Enjoy your child; we are glad they are here at school! Go Panthers!!
